

The Age*, 31 May 1937, p. 13, Choir of Aborigines

Members of the Australian aboriginal choir now in Melbourne attended the Pleasant Sunday afternoon at Wesley Church yesterday, and contributed several items in the English and aboriginal tongues with pleasing tonal effect. Their voices mended excellently, and their hymns were reminiscent of the Fisk Jubilee Singers.

To celebrate the 102nd anniversary of Melbourne's birthday the choir, under the auspices of the Australian Aboriginal League, will entertain the pioneers at a concert in the Australian Church, Russell Street, to-night.